Nick Saban is a man of many accomplishments. He's been the head coach of the Alabama Crimson Tide since 2007. During his tenures at LSU and Alabama, he led his teams to seven impressive national championships. In addition to being widely considered the greatest coach in collegiate football history, he's also the highest paid one earning a $9.8 million base salary this year.

And as of last month, Saban can add a new title to his list: investor and co-owner of The Alamite.

Envisioned by women-led and Los Angeles-based firm Avenue Interior Design, the aesthetic merges muted tones, rich textures, warm lighting, and timeless furnishings for a refined residential feel. And throughout the property, you'll discover striking works by leading Southern and Tuscaloosa-based female artists including Angela Chrusciaki Blehm, Kristin Blakeney, and Gina Julian, alongside quirky accents such as vintage trophy displays that thoughtfully nod to the "City of Champions."
